Taft in Charge.—Havana, Oct. 1.—Secretary Taft is in entire charge of the situation. He has begun his administration of the affairs of the present defunct republic in a manner which gives heart to both contending factions that Uncle Sam does not intend to hold the islands indefinitely.

BISHOP M'CABE HAS DIFFERENT OPINION

Methodist Bishop Does Not Agree with Bishop Williams' Statement of the Bible.

When shown the report that Bishop Charles D. Williams of the Episcopal diocese of Michigan said he did not believe the Bible was the word of God, Bishop Charles M'Cabe, of the Methodist conference just closed, said: "On the book of Genesis depends the whole of the Christian teaching. If you do away with Genesis you do away with the fall of man. If you do away with the fall of man you do away with the atonement, and where is the Christian teaching? The book of Genesis is the teaching of God; it embodies all Christianity and the rest of the sacred volume follows its teachings."

IRELAND'S FRIENDS IN UNITED STATES

Third National Convention of the Irish League of America Opens in Philadelphia.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 1.—Friends of the Irish cause, hundreds in number, are gathered here from all parts of the United States and Canada to attend the third national convention of the United Irish League of America, which will hold its sessions during the next two days. The deliberation of the convention will be of unusual importance in view of the certainty that a measure of self-government for Ireland will be introduced in the British parliament next spring; and it is believed that the attitude of the friends of Ireland on this side of the Atlantic, as it will be declared at the convention, will have a very powerful influence in shaping the provisions of the measure of national self-government. As a preliminary to the convention, a great mass meeting has been arranged for the Academy of Music to-night in honor of T. P. O'Connor, M. P., and Edward Blake, M. P., the delegates to the convention from the Irish national party in the British parliament. Governor Pennypacker is to preside at the meeting and the speakers will include Mayor Weaver, Messrs. O'Connor, Blake and others of note.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] New York, Oct. 1.—A county fair and carnival, the second of its kind, is being held in the Metropolitan Museum in Madison Square Garden today and will continue until near the end of the month. The special attractions, according to the press agent, include real cows giving real milk, a real country paper edited by a real country editor, and other features supposed to be common to the rural districts. All these are not sufficient to attract visitors; there are a hundred pretty milkmaids will act as guides for the male visitors, while many sturdy young farmers will pilot the ladies from one point of interest to another.

BROODED OVER DEATH OF WIFE

RURAL MAIL CARRIER AT ORFORDVILLE COMMITTED SUICIDE.

Blew Head Off With Gun.

Daughter of Sixteen Survives Him—Had Brothers, Foster Mother and Foster Sister.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Orfordville, Oct. 1.—In a fit of temporary insanity resulting from brooding over the sudden death of his wife three months ago, Nelson Munson, the rural mail carrier from the post office here, committed suicide this morning about halfpast nine o'clock. The tragedy was enacted in the rear of his barn, four or five rods from his house. His shotgun lay beside the dead body and the condition of the remains revealed the method of death. It showed that Munson had placed the muzzle of the gun in his mouth or against his nose, as the upper portion of the head was blown off.

Mentally Deranged.

Mr. Munson was forty-six years of age and considered a faithful and good citizen. His wife was taken sick about four months ago and not until within a few hours of her demise did he realize that she would not recover. The shock was more than he could stand and signs of mental derangement have since been evident. He is survived by a daughter, Cora Munson, aged 16, and relatives in Beloit. No arrangements have been made for the funeral.

TWO THOUSAND DRUG MEN IN CONVENTION

Retail Dope Men From Every State and Representing Seventy-five Thousand Merchants.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 1.—Two thousand retail druggists, coming from all parts of the union and representing the seventy-five thousand persons engaged in that business in the United States, are gathered in Atlanta today for the ninth annual convention of the National Association of Retail Druggists. During the four days the convention will be in session the drug trade will be thoroughly discussed from commercial, educational and scientific standpoint. There is likely to be some plain talk concerning the competition to which the retail druggists are subjected from dry goods, department and other stores, as well as from the "cut-rate" emporiums that are now to be found in every large city. Those wholesale druggists that are alleged to act as "feeders" for cut-rate stores will come in for some sharp criticism. Another matter to receive attention is the present widespread movement demanding pure and unadulterated drugs. The formal opening of the convention takes place tonight in the senate chamber of the state capitol. The president of the association, M. T. Breslin, of New Orleans, will preside, and the delegates will be welcomed by Governor Terrell, Mayor Woodward and by representatives of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, the Georgia Pharmaceutical association and other bodies.

GAME PLENTIFUL IN MAINE THIS YEAR

Deer Hunting Season Opened—Nimble and Waltons Report Abundance of Prey.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Bangor, Me., Oct. 1.—Maine's deer hunting season opened today and will continue until Dec. 15, Sunday excepted. According to reports brought down from the woods by men who have been camping and canoeing, game is very plentiful this year, having wintered well and enjoyed better protection than usual this summer. According to the figures of the Fish and Game Commission about 25,000 deer and 500 moose are killed every season in the Maine woods. The best hunting is in the regions about the Penobscot river, Moosehead lake and Aramoosee country. While the shooting of big game is a sport and pastime for the men from the cities, it has come to be regarded by the Maine country folk chiefly as a source of revenue, and as such is pronounced a great success.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Detroit, Oct. 1.—An effort was made today to discover some trace of the identity of the steamer reported sunk early yesterday morning in Lake Huron off Port Sanilac. This far it has been fruitless. No floating wreckage or boats have been reported yet. The City of Rome passed Mackinac City safely, setting at rest the rumors that she had been lost.

MUCH IMPORTANT WORK AWAITS THE PRESIDENT

All His Energy, Strengthened By A Summer's Outing At Oyster Bay, Will Be Needed.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Washington, D. C., Oct. 1.—Refreshed by his summer sojourn at Oyster Bay, President Roosevelt returns to Washington to find his desk piled high with official business awaiting his attention. In the language of the street there is certainly enough business on hand to hold him for awhile.

In addition to the Cuban problem and other important questions with which, of course, he has kept in personal touch right along, there is a large amount of business of a more or less routine nature that has been allowed to accumulate during his absence from the executive mansion. This includes a number of knotty departmental questions now awaiting action. The Keep Commission, appointed a year and a half ago, to investigate the departments and make recommendations for improvements, has about completed its final report, and this will receive the early attention of the President. The commission has been through all the executive departments and will make a good many recommendations none of them extremely radical but all of them of more or less importance.

It is an assured fact that the president will give his personal attention to the enforcement of the reform legislation enacted at the recent session of congress. He is anxious that the Interstate Commerce Commission shall get results under the rate law, and he will support Secretary Wilson in the enforcement of the meat inspection law which goes into full force today. When he is not busy with other matters he can spur on the many trust investigations he now has under his command. It is well understood that he is particularly anxious that the Department of Justice shall make a case against the Standard Oil Company. The campaign against this company has received his personal attention from time to time.

Another matter that may be expected to receive his attention at an early date is the filling of the vacancy on the supreme court bench caused by the resignation of Justice Brown. When Justice Brown resigned last spring the place was unofficially offered to Secretary Taft, but Mr. Taft could not make up his mind at that time as to what he ought to do and so it was arranged that Justice Brown should sit until the end of the term thus affording the president an opportunity to keep the place open until the court reconvenes this month. The prevailing impression here is that Secretary Taft will not take the place, but it is only an impression for no one knows anything about it. It is possible that the president already has someone in mind and will name him as soon as Taft finally declines the place.

SECOND CLASS MAIL INQUIRY COMMENCED

Postal Commission Meeting in New York to Discuss Necessary Changes in System.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] New York, Oct. 1.—The postal commission appointed under the recent act of congress to make inquiry regarding second-class mail matter, assembled at the Holland House in this city today for its first hearing. The purpose of the commission is to inquire into and report to congress its conclusions on the operation and effect of the existing law relative to second-class mail matter, and what changes, if any, should be made. The commission will direct its inquiries especially along the following lines:

1. Whether the revenue from the second class of mail matter should be made commensurate with the actual cost of the service rendered in handling it, and whether its classification should not accordingly be grounded upon practical rather than ideal distinction?

2. In case second class matter is not put upon a cost-paying basis, what limitations should be placed upon the matter which may properly be embraced in that class?

3. By what amendments of existing law may the changes which appear to be advisable be most effectually brought about?

PERSONAL OBJECTIONS.

The discussion which has been carried on during the past few weeks over the interurban franchise reveals one fact which is apparent to every observer, namely, that the objections raised are without exception of a personal nature.

The man has yet to be found who will say that in his judgment the road will not benefit the city. The council is a unit in declaring that the road should be built and the aldermen know just as well as the people know that all that stands in the way is the objection of a little group of people whose grudge is purely personal.

A few property owners on South

Main street object to the noise of a railroad, a few more on Milwaukee avenue to the narrowness of the street, and here and there a man who thinks his property may be injured by having a road in front of his house.

Against these weak protests when numerically considered is the voice of the city, pleading with the men elected to serve the best interests of the city. The question is frequently asked,

"How can the council afford to turn down a proposition so universally demanded?" and no one attempts to answer. The advantages are so apparent to every man who looks at the situation with unprejudiced mind that personal objection seems insignificant.

The grading of a street frequently means the damming of some property and street paving is often a burden to property owners. The same is true concerning city sewerage, but no city can afford to be influenced by these conditions.

The coming of a railroad means disaster to the stage coach and possible loss to the man whose money is invested, but the railroad means more to the city than the stage coach.

The greatest good to the greatest number is the thought, and the only thought that should influence action in dealing with problems like the one which now confronts the council.

The growth and development of the city means prosperity to the individual, and the transportation question is one of the most important factors.

Janesville has an opportunity to secure another railroad for the asking and when secured it means the entering wedge for lines that are sure to follow. Instead of opposing the proposition, we ought to get out the band and celebrate the event, for it is worth more red fire and fireworks than anything which has come our way in many a day.

The pathetic side of a Methodist preacher's life is when he stands at the threshold of old age, rich in hope for the life beyond, but destitute of the means to tide him over. It was a gracious thing of H. A. Mollenpau-g, who redires from active service after forty years in the field. The pau-

g presented to Mr. Lugg by Mr.

Mollenpau-

g yesterday morning was contributed by the laymen of the churches which the clergyman had served.

Why should not every republican in the state endorse the ticket and be satisfied. The old La Follette faction certainly has no cause for complaint, for they made the ticket without interference. The balance of the party stopped kicking long ago. The route to harmony is so clear and straight that a blind man could hardly miss it and this means an oldtime majority for the ticket in November.

The Methodist clergy is more or less tinctured with prohibition fan-tism. This is one of the issues where they fail to represent the sentiment of the church which they serve. They know that national and state probi-tion is impractical yet cling to it with dog-like tenacity, butting their head against a stone wall for the pleasure of the sensation.

If the franchise passes the city hall will be decorated with a group picture of the city fathers with the inscription, "These are the men who recognized an opportunity and grasped it." That's better than a tombstone dedicated to a man who died from softening of the brain, because he thought so much and became so absorbed that he forgot to act.

The Methodist conference has come and gone and the church is under obligations for courtesies extended.

Many homes were thrown open for the entertainment of conference visitors. The time will come, as it should, when this class of gatherings will be self-supporting, and when individual churches will provide their pastors with funds for hotel expenses.

Chairman Connor has served notice on disgruntled office-seekers that independent candidates will receive neither recognition nor support from the party. This is as it should be.

If the primary law isn't the voice of the people, what is it?

Procrastination is the worst enemy that Janesville has ever had. The time to do things is when opportunity offers, and that time is now. The present is to improve and enjoy.

Thinking and worrying about the future is never very profitable.

The Cuban republic has expired and it is doubtful if an independent government is again established. The people of the island are better off as a part of the United States and this fact will be fully appreciated when annexation is complete.

The future of Janesville may be largely influenced by the action of the council tonight. If the aldermen recognize the fact that they represent the city and not themselves there will be no doubt of the outcome.

Any sort of an excuse is good enough for opposing the franchise.

One man says he is against it because the Gazette favors it, and yet some people wonder why the town don't grow. Funny, isn't it?

Hearst and Bryan are bedfellows

at last, and democracy will find them

a good pair to draw to. It matters but little which one of them heads the ticket in 1908.

Too much thinking about the future is not profitable. Grant the franchise and think about it with satisfaction

when you ride over the new line.

Colby is still wondering what struck him in New Jersey. He has about decided that La Follette didn't help him any.

Taking Hold in Cuba.

Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin. On account of pressing duties in Cuba,

Secretary Taft will be unable to keep his speaking engagement in Wisconsin. He will handle the difficult Cuban situation with the requisite com-mingle of firmness and urbanity.

Indeed, his reputation for tactfulness is so thoroughly established that his countrymen feel confident of the happy outcome of every task which he undertakes.

Cuba's material development will go forward faster than ever under the condition of stability guaranteed by military occupation by the United States. Thousands of Americans will go there to live, attracted not only by the opportunities for acquiring other side, interesting to students of politics and not so pleasant to con-

Many Committee Reports.
Various committees presented reports, which were adopted almost unanimously. The only lively discussion was concerning the action of the conference toward "The Wisconsin Christian Advocate," a paper published at Milwaukee by the Advocate Publishing company and edited by Rev. A. J. Benjamin, a member of the conference. One committee report contained a clause complimentary to the paper and its editor. Fearing that this action might make "The Advocate" the organ of the conference or interfere with the size of the subscription list of the general conference organ, "The Northwestern Christian Advocate," various members, including Mr. Benjamin, spoke and the latter asserted that his paper did not desire to be nor would it be the organ of anybody or anything, though he thought it was doing a good work for both the conference and for the cause of prohibition. The bishop appointed Mr. Benjamin to the editorship, ruling that this did not make the paper an official representative of the conference and assuring the members that Mr. Benjamin's past record as a pastor and as a presiding elder allowed him to be trusted with this charge.

$7,170 for Superannuates
The Board of Stewards reported that there was on hand $7,170 to be distributed among the forty-eight claimants; they are the superannuated pastors and dependents of former members of the conference.

A collection was taken this morning to make a donation to the sexton of the Carroll church and to partially meet Dr. Tippet's bill of ten dollars which he informed the conference he would present, but not press. In the neighborhood of eleven dollars and a half was taken and at the direction of Mr. Tippet ten of this was presented to the sexton.

Reverends W. J. McKee, S. Y. Truesdell and George Brown of the West Wisconsin Conference were present this morning and were introduced.

Gift to Samuel Lugg

During the present conference Rev. Samuel Lugg, who has been at Shawpiere the past year and is one of the oldest preachers in the state, having been a member of the conference for forty years, was placed on the superannuated list. He will retire from active service and goes to White-water to reside. Mr. Lugg has held many charges in Wisconsin and has hosts of friends all over. These desired to present him with some token of regard and yesterday morning at the close of the devotional services, which he led, H. A. Mohlenpau of Clinton, who instituted and took charge of the collection, presented him with a cash gift of $400 and a memorial case containing letters from the different donors. This money was subscribed to raise the mortgage of $400 on Mr. Lugg's home. The presentation was very impressive and the gift speaks much for the place Mr. Lugg occupies in the hearts of many.

Enormous Crowds Yesterday
Enormous audiences were present at every session of the conference yesterday, many people coming from the country and the nearby towns. Bishop Charles C. McCabe delivered a very eloquent sermon in the morning and held his listeners, who packed the church, till half past twelve o'clock. His theme was "Christ, the Desire of All Nations."

Dr. Wentworth F. Stewart of Detroit spoke to a large men's mass meeting at the Y. M. C. A. in the afternoon, and Dr. L. Munhall of Philadelphia and Dr. J. P. Brushingham of Philadelphia were the speakers at the church last evening.

The following were ordained: Elders—E. B. Fisher, Clarence L. Anderson, Pastors—Amos L. Tucker, Lewis Wesley Nixon, Horatio S. Henry, Deacons—James C. Smith, Henry H. Kaefter, Amos L. Tucker, Lewis W. Nixon.

MRS. F. J. BAILEY IS CALLED BY DEATH

Passes Away on Saturday Evening After a Lingered Illness of Some Weeks.

After a lingering illness death came to the relief of Mrs. F. J. Bailey and at half past six o'clock Saturday night her sufferings ceased and the immortal spirit went out to the life beyond. Mrs. Bailey's maiden name was Parmley. She was born at Elgin, Ill., June 3, 1859, and two years later her father, the late Rev. Levi Parmley, removed to Beloit. In 1881 she was married to F. J. Bailey and in 1885 the family came to Janesville, where they have since resided.

Four children came to bless the union. One died in infancy and three survive—Grace, Harvey E., and Leslie C. Mrs. Bailey was a member of the Baptist church and an active worker in the Sunday school. She possessed a warm and generous heart which beat in sympathy with childlike, gaining ready response and winning the love of all who knew her. She was a womanly woman, a devoted wife and mother and a benediction in the home where she presided. Just why death should be permitted to enter a home and take from its embrace the wife and mother, who in the zenith of life was faithfully performing her mission, is one of the problems beyond the ken of human comprehension, and so the death of Mrs. Bailey comes as a sad surprise to the many friends who knew her, and to the little group that look in vain for comfort in the home where naught is left but a hallowed memory.

Mrs. Bailey was in the highest sense a home-maker and a home-keeper, quiet and retiring in disposition, yet rich in the graces of character which make the home a paradise.

Charity she possessed in rare degree and a good word for everybody was the natural expression of a heart which beat in sympathy with humanity.

For many months she had been a great sufferer, yet not a word of complaint was offered. Cheerful and patient to the last, she lived on the measure of existence and peacefully entered her rest. Mrs. Bailey was a Christian wife and mother. Professing little, but possessing much, her influence was like a halo in the home and in the community. A good woman has gone to her reward and in the day when all mysteries are made plain it may be discovered that her work was accomplished.

"We know not now, we can not tell, We can not think—but to rebel, And yet His ways are infinite, He doth all things well." Generous sympathy will be extended to the family in their sudden and deep bereavement. Funeral services will be conducted by Rev. R. M. Vaughan at nine o'clock tomorrow morning from the home on Clark street, and the remains will rest in the cemetery at Beloit.

Mrs. Polina Phillips Callison

Funeral services over the remains of the late Mrs. Polina Phillips Callison were held from the home near Barkers Corners yesterday afternoon at one o'clock and the remains interred at Milton Junction. Rev. C. M. Starweather, formerly pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Milton Junction, officiated and the pallbearers were J. J. Callison, W. L. Callison, G. H. Phillips and C. E. Palmer. The deceased was born in Erie county, Pennsylvania, October 11, 1820, and at the age of sixteen went with her sister to Indiana. Two years later she was married to James Callison and in 1863 came with him to Wisconsin. Ten children, six of whom survive, were born to them. The living are: Rozella of Lima, William of Heron Lake, Minnesota, Jay of Barkers Corners, Mrs. A. S. Ewins of Kansas, Mrs. C. E. Palmer of Lima and Mrs. George Hassinger of Milton Junction. Dr. Callison was summoned beyond in 1887 and of late Mrs. Callison had resided with her son at Barkers Corners. Recently she fell breaking her hip and her demise was the result of this accident.

Death of an Infant

Mr. and Mrs. Brysted of the town of Harmony are mourning the death of their seven-months-old daughter. The demise occurred last evening and the remains were taken to Stoughton this afternoon. Funeral services are to be held at six this evening and interment made there.

HOPE TO DEFEAT THE SUBSTITUTES

Aldermen Belonging to the Progressive Wing of the Council Have Not Given Up Battle For Interurban.

Just what action the city council will take this evening with regard to the Janesville & Madison interurban franchise problem is still an open question. Various opinions were expressed by aldermen who were interviewed this morning. One of them thought that a fairly liberal substitute for the original measure which ought to be satisfactory to the promoters will be passed. Another said that unless these substitute measures which are to be reported by the judiciary committee are rejected, at the outset the enterprise is done for, it being a foregone conclusion that Mr. Clough and his associates will not accept the substitutes which are said to eliminate those very concessions which they have demanded from the outset. One of the more optimistic of supporters of a broad, liberal franchise felt quite certain that five, if not six, aldermen will be found ready to grant the original measure with a few alterations when the question comes to a vote. Still another believed that if the double track on North Franklin street phase of the proposition could be satisfactorily adjusted at least one of his colleagues could be won over to the progressive wing of the council. The River street paving work will in all probability be accepted tonight, and the regular routine business will be transacted.

Village Schoolmaster Who Became Cuba's President

Tomas Estrada Palma, Whose Regime Is the Issue in the Pearl of the Antilles

Gentle in Temperament, He Favors Peace; Not War—Though Born Rich, He Scorns Gorgeous Display of Power—Bereft of Fortune and Parents, and Exiled For Many Years, He Devoted His Talents to the Good of His Countrymen

By ROBERTUS LOVE.

TWENTY-NINE years ago a man who during the past few weeks has loomed measurably large in the public eye was taken to Spain a prisoner. The official interrogator, after taking his name and his place of residence, asked: "What is your occupation?" "I am president of the republic of Cuba," replied the prisoner. The interrogator shrugged his shoulders. The reply was not satisfactory. He regarded it as a bluff. Again he asked the prisoner what was his occupation and again received the same reply. The Spanish inquisitor was furious. This time a snort was added to the shrug, and he said sternly: "It is for the prison records. What do you do? What is your regular business?" "I am president of the republic of Cuba," calmly responded the prisoner, and he would give no other answer. The man was Tomas Estrada Palma, now the actual president of the real republic of Cuba. He was then, in 1877, provisional president of the insurgent republic, which carried its capital on horseback through the forests and over the hills of Cuba. He had been elected president in the woods toward the close of the ten years' war while fighting valiantly for the liberation of his native island from the ancient yoke of Spain. For nearly nine years, since the outbreak of the rebellion in 1895, he had had no other occupation than that of a soldier in arms against the monarch of Spain, and during the last few months preceding his capture he had been the official head of the revolution. In the light of subsequent history the reiterated reply of Palma to his prison interrogator possesses a strong dramatic interest. As a matter of fact, the whole career of Tomas Estrada Palma is rich in dramatic situations. The climax was reached when five years ago he was unanimously elected to the presidency of the new republic of Cuba, though at the time he was living in the United States, a naturalized American citizen, and for a quarter of a century had not set foot upon his native island.

President Palma's personality is distinctly unlike that of the average Latin-American. His temperament is gentle rather than boisterous, and his taste is for peace instead of war. He craves not a whit for the gorgeous display of power nor for the glitter of personal adornment as a ruling official. After his election to the Cuban presidency he received at his humble home in the village of Central Valley, N. Y., many letters and telegrams of congratulation and one commutation from a military and court costume in New York city who requested an interview, stating that he had created national and international fame for various South American presidents and generals.

President Estrada Palma opened this letter and laughed. "Not a play president," he said. "At the outbreak of the recent rebellion one lone soldier stood guard outside the door, acting rather as a guide than as a guard, and the president went his way without a military escort or body guard, usually riding on a mule or on a horse, and on a trolley car like an ordinary business man. Whatever his opponents may find to say against him, they cannot call him a play president."

position to endure the perils and the poverty of a revolutionary leader. The death of his father when the future president was a small boy left him heir to vast estates in Santiago province, and he was educated by his devoted mother with a view to rendering him capable of handling his property when he should become of age. Passing through the university at Havana, he took a long postgraduate course at Seville, and returned from Spain with a lawyer's degree. But even then, at the age of twenty-five, he foresaw that his career was not to be that of an antiquator, and young Estrada assisted in the organization of a revolutionary society which set about to right the wrongs of his country. A few years later this movement, in conjunction with others of a similar character, developed into open revolution, and at the age of thirty-three the rich young planter took the field in the cause of liberty, fighting in the ten years' war. A few months after his capture and his deportation to Spain he was freed with the defeat of the revolutionists. Some months later Palma was offered his liberty and the restoration of his estates provided only that he would take an oath of allegiance to Spain.

An Exile From Cuba. "I would rather be shot as president of Cuba," he said, and steadfastly refused the offer. Finally he was liberated, all his property having been confiscated. He was of course an exile from Cuba by reason of his refusal to take the oath of Spanish allegiance. "I shall never again set foot upon Cuban soil," said Palma, "until my country becomes a free and independent nation." And he never did. When at last he did return, an old man, after twenty-five years of voluntary exile, it was to enter the splendid palace of the capitain-general of Cuba at Havana, cheerfully welcomed by his countrymen, to take the oath of office as president of the new republic on the 20th of May, 1902, and to install himself in the palace of his old time enemies and

WORKING WOMEN

Their Hard Struggle Made Easier—Interesting Statements by a Young Lady in Boston and One in Nashville, Tenn.

All women work, some in their homes, some in church, and some in the whirl of society. And in stores, mills and shops tens of thousands are on the never-ceasing treadmill, earning their daily bread.

All are subject to the same physical laws, all suffer alike from the same physical disturbance, and the nature of their duties, in many cases, quickly drifts them into the horrors of all kinds of female complaints, tumors, ulceration, falling and displacement, or perhaps irregularity or suppression, causing backache, nervousness, irritability and lassitude.

They especially require an invigorating, sustaining medicine which will strengthen the female organism and enable them to bear easily the fatigues of the day, to sleep well at night, and to rise refreshed and cheerful.

How distressing to see a woman struggling to earn a livelihood or perform her household duties when her back and head are aching, she is so tired she can hardly drag about or stand up, and every movement causes pain, the origin of which is due to some derangement of the female organism.

Miss F. Orser, of 14 Warrenton Street, Boston, tells women how to avoid such suffering, she writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham: "I suffered misery for several years with female irregularities. My back ached, I had bearing-down pains, and frequent headaches."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Succeeds Where Others Fail.

I could not sleep and could hardly drag around. I consulted two physicians without relief, and as a last resort tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and to my surprise, every ache and pain left me. I gained ten pounds and am in perfect health."

Miss Pearl Ackers, of 327 North Summer Street, Nashville, Tenn., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham: "I suffered with painful periods, severe backache, bearing-down pains, nervousness, and my trouble grew worse every month. My physician failed to help me, and I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I soon found it was doing me good, my nervousness disappeared, and no longer fear my monthly periods."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the unfailing cure for all these troubles. It strengthens the proper muscles, and displacement with all its horrors will no more crush you.

Backache, dizziness, fainting, bearing-down pains, disordered stomach, moodiness, dislike of friends and society, all symptoms of the one cause, will be quickly dispelled, and it will make you strong and well.

You can tell the story of your sufferings to a woman and receive helpful advice free of cost. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. The present Mrs. Pinkham is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, and for twenty-five years she has, under her direction, and since her decease, been advising sick women free of charge.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Succeeds Where Others Fail.

Robbed of nearly all of their clothing when bathing in a woodland pond near their father's home in Lancaster, Pa., Gertrude and Susan Newcomer, thirteen and seventeen years old respectively, were ashamed to go home, so they concluded to live in the forest.

The weather had been warm and food was easily obtained from the paternal cellars at night, and before long the girls decided the original savage state was the real thing.

This kept up for three weeks, or until early one morning, when Newcomer, the father, lying in wait for thieves who had been visiting his springhouse and cellar at night, suddenly arose from a dark corner and confronted the scared countenances of his "savage" daughters.

"I'll give you girls five minutes to clear off to your own beds," cried the old man.

They cleared and (aside from neighborhood gossip) the incident was closed.

saved by an Alarm Clock. Mrs. Charles Bateman, of Homer, Pa., owes her life and home to the ringing of an alarm clock.

On a recent morning she arose early, took a lump in one hand and an alarm clock in the other and started downstairs. She tripped and fell to the bottom of the stairs. The lamp exploded and set fire to a rug. The fall started the alarm clock ringing and awakened a daughter, Anna, who pulled her mother away from the fire and extinguished it.

Two Shot by Fireworks. Two persons were seriously hurt during a fireworks exhibition, which was a closing feature of a three days' centennial celebration at Connellsville, Pa. During the display a spark set off ten giant rockets, which shot into a crowd.

Killed in Fight Over a Dog. James Errey, a negro, shot and killed Baldy Perry, white, at Raynor, in Franklin county, N. C. The homicide was the result of a dispute over possession of a dog.

Accidents Among Miners. Of every 1,000 miners in Great Britain 1.24 lose their lives by accident annually. In Germany the rate at 1,000 is 1.90; in the United States, 2.35.

Secretary Root at Washington. Washington, Oct. 1.—The United States naval vessel Sylph with Secretary Root aboard arrived in Washington Sunday. Accompanying Mr. Root was Mrs. Root and his son and daughter.

And up there, alone amid the clouds, Guy Oscar, as he himself tersely put it, "sticking to it." He had stuck to it to such good effect that the supply of fresh young simiaco was daily increasing in bulk. Again Victor Durnovo seemed to have regained his place for sell. He was like a full blooded horse—fractious enough if kept hard at work. "He was a different man, up on the plateau from what he was down at Longgo. There are some men who deteriorate in the wilds, while others are better, stronger, finer creatures away from the luxury of civilization and the softening influence of female society. Of these latter was Victor Durnovo."

Of one thing Guy Oscar soon became aware—namely, that no one could make the men work as could Durnovo. He had merely to walk to the door of his tent to make every picker on the little plateau bend over his tree with renewed attention. And while above all was eagerness and hurry, below, in the valley, this man's name inspired peace.

The trees were now beginning to show the good result of pruning and a regular irrigation. Never had the leaves been so vigorous, never had the simiaco trees borne such a lush, luxuriant growth since the dim, dark days of the flood.

Oscar relapsed into his old hunting ways. Day after day he tranquilly shouldered his rifle, and alone or followed by one attendant only, he disappeared into the forest only to emerge therefrom at sunset. What he saw there he never spoke of. Sure it was that he must have seen strange things, for no prying white man had set foot in these wilds before him; no book has ever been written of that country that lies around the simiaco plateau.

Oscar was thinking of Millicent Chyne one misty morning while he walked slowly backward and forward before his tent. His knowledge of the country told him that the mist was nothing but the night accumulation of moisture, round the summit of the mountain, that down in the valleys it was clear and that half an hour's simiaco would disperse all. He was waiting for this result when he heard a rifle shot far away in the haze beneath him and he knew that it was Joseph, probably making one of those marvelous long shots of his which roused a sudden glow of envy in the heart of this mighty hunter whenever he witnessed them.

Oscar immediately went to his tent and came out with his short barreled, high-shock him as a terror shakes a rat, turned by the sound of angry voices, behind the native camp. He turned naturally toward Durnovo's tent, and saw that he was absent. The voices rose and fell, there was a singular accompanying roar of sound which Oscar never remembered, having heard before. It was the protesting voice of a mass of men—and there is no sound like it—none so disquieting. Oscar listened attentively and suddenly he was thrown upon his feet by a pistol shot.

At the same moment Joseph emerged from behind the tent, dragging young one by the collar. The victim of Joseph's violence was off his feet, but still struggling and kicking. Guy Oscar saw the flash of a second shot, apparently within a few inches of Joseph's face, but he came on, dragging the man with him, whom from his clothing, Oscar saw to be Durnovo.

Joseph was splitting out wadding and burned powder. "Shoot me, would you, yer skulking chocolate bird? I'll teach you I'll twist that brown neck of yours!" He shook him as a terror shakes a rat, and seemed to shake things off him among others a revolver which described a circle in the air and fell heavily on the ground, where the concussion discharged a cartridge. "Ever since I shot Joseph, literally throwing Durnovo down on the ground at Oscar's feet, that man has just shot one of them poor niggers, so I'm God!"

Durnovo rose slowly to his feet, as if the shaking had disturbed his faculties. "Oh, don't make a fool of yourself," he said in a hissing voice; "you don't understand these natives at all. The man raised his hand to me. He would have killed me if he had had the chance. Shooting was the only thing left to do. You can only hold these men by fear. They expect it."

SEVENTY-NINE DIE IN BIG HURRICANE

REPORTS COME IN FROM OUTLYING VILLAGES.

TOTAL MAY REACH 125

Stories That Men on the Oyster Fleets Had Perished Are Discredited by Unreliability of Information Received.

Mobile, Ala., via Meridian, Miss., Oct. 1.—The number of casualties in the great storm of last Wednesday is slowly increasing as messages are received from places which have heretofore been inaccessible. The total Saturday night of the known dead was 75. This number was brought up to a certainty of 79, and a possibility of 102 by the reports which reached Mobile during the night and early Sunday. Four bodies not before counted have been found at Coden and it is estimated that 23 lives have been lost from the oyster fleet around Cedar Point.

This last estimate is not known to be accurate, and is probably somewhat exaggerated for the reason that it includes among the dead every man aboard a fishing boat who has not been heard of since the storm. It is known that some of the boats, on which these men were have been driven ashore, and it is entirely possible that some of the crews managed to reach the shore. It does not seem likely at present that the death roll will amount in this vicinity to more than 125.

Cleaning Up at Mobile.
Mobile itself is rapidly emerging from the confusion caused by the storm. Large gangs of men were kept working all of Sunday in clearing the streets of debris, three of the street car lines have commenced to run for the first time since Wednesday, the confusion at the docks is rapidly being repaired and business will be at normal action as soon as the railroads are able to run trains.

As yet the Louisville & Nashville are still disabled and are the only road which is not able to maintain a schedule. And the time when that line will be open for regular traffic is conjectural. It will certainly be the best part of a fortnight before it will be running trains between Mobile and New Orleans. The Southern and the Mobile & Ohio, are running trains as before the storm.

The situation along the coast to the west of this city is now fairly well known. At Scranton, Miss., one church, the Odd Fellows hall and several buildings were blown down. At Pascagoula beach, a residence is left standing, the river front at that point is completely torn up, and the lighthouse there has been destroyed. Shipping at this point, however, has been badly damaged.

The revenue cutter Winona, for which much fear was entertained, is now known to be safe. The crew of the cutter rescued the keeper of the Pascagoula lighthouse and his family during the storm. The keeper of the Horn Island lighthouse, just outside of Scranton, lost his life. The captain of a tug which came near the house at the commencement of the storm urged him to leave, but he refused to abandon his post and in a short time was drowned. The entire end of the island on which the lighthouse was situated is said to have been carried away by the waves.

Boats Deprived of Refuge.
At Biloxi the damage has been of a minor character to buildings. Every bathhouse in the place has gone and the beautiful driveway along the coast at this point has been destroyed. Boats which have from time immemorial found refuge from all the storms that blew by fleeing into the back bay at Biloxi, were granted no such immunity on Wednesday, as the waves ran high in the air, and many of the boats that sought refuge there were sunk, and all of them badly damaged. At Pass Christian no lives were lost, and the damage was slight. The wrecking of a few houses comprised the damage at Gulfport and no lives were lost there.

Five out of eight vessels at Ship Island at the time of the storm were beached, and two will be total wrecks. Several vessels, the names of which are unknown, are ashore off Horn Island and the small islands marking the passage between Dauphin Island and the mainland have been destroyed. The beacon lights on this part of the coast are not greatly damaged. The schooner Alice Graham, of Mobile, is known to have been lost with her crew of six men. This boat has been pursued by an evil fate, and besides having various mishaps from time to time, was wrecked in the great storm of 1893, when several people were lost from her.

The known dead at Dauphin Island are Capt. Robert Peters, of the schooner Louisiana B., and Mitchell P. Zell, mate of the same boat. Four bodies have been picked up in the water near Dauphin Island and have been buried there. Two were evidently sailors and two were boys. The people on Dauphin Island suffered great hardship during the storm and for 24 hours were in great danger. The soldiers of Fort Gaines made a dangerous trip of two miles to the residences on the island, offering to give every body shelter within the fort, but the offer was in all cases refused, the people remaining, preferring to remain in their houses.

PENSION ROSTER SHOWS DECREASE

OVER 12,000 FEWER NAMES ON CURRENT LIST.

TOTAL COST TO COUNTRY

Entire Expenditure Since American Government Was Established Reaches Nearly Three and One-Half Billions of Dollars.

Washington, Oct. 1.—The net decrease in the pension roll of the United States for the fiscal year ended June 30, last, amounted to 12,470, the largest decrease ever known in the history of the country. These facts are brought out in the annual report of Commissioner of Pensions, Warner, which has just been completed. In the report the commissioner expresses the opinion that there will be a still more marked decrease during the present year.

During the year there were added to the roll 33,569 new pensioners and 1,405 restorations and renewals, making a total addition of 34,974. The total number of pensioners on the roll during the year was 1,033,115. The number of pensioners dropped from the roll during the year was 47,444, leaving the number of pensioners June 30, 1906, 985,671.

Steady Decrease in List.
The maximum number of pensioners in the history of the bureau was reached January 31, 1906, when it was 1,004,196, since which date there has been a steady decrease, aggregating to June 30, 1906, 18,225.

Death was the principal cause of the decrease of the last year, the number of names dropped on that account being 43,300. Of these, 29,208 were those of survivors of the civil war, leaving 666,453 survivors of that war still on the roll. There are still four pensioners on account of the revolutionary war, one a widow and the other three daughters, 660 all widows; on account of the war with Spain, and 11,472 on account of the Mexican war. Of the Mexican war pensions, 3,954 are to survivors.

The commissioner calls attention to the fact that while there has been a material decrease in the number of pensioners, the annual value of the roll is nearly as large as it was last year. This arises from the fact that the ratings of many invalid pensioners are constantly increasing, the average increase last year being $1.22.

Distribution of Pensions.
Pennsylvania has the largest number of pensioners, 98,329. Ohio follows with 96,564. New York has 89,240.

More than 5,000 pensions are paid to persons residing abroad. Of these, 3,567 are in Canada, 602 in Germany and 495 in Ireland, and the others are scattered in 64 other countries, including the island of St. Helena, the Azores, Siam, Korea, etc.

During the year 23,623 claims were allowed under order No. 78, allowing old age pensions.

During the last session of congress 3,507 special acts were passed.

Grand Total of Payments.
The report shows that in the entire history of the country the total expenditure on account of pensions has been $2,459,860,317, of which only $96,445,444 had been paid out prior to the beginning of the civil war. Of the total, $3,259,195,206 was on account of the civil war. The total payment of pensions on account of the Spanish war reaches $15,438,355 up to date.

The disbursements for navy pensions during the year were $4,204,004, and the income from the navy pension fund available for the payment of pensions was $363,618, or less than nine per cent. of the amount required for the payment of navy pensions. Since 1870 this fund has been inadequate to pay navy pensions, and the deficiency has been provided for out of the public funds by congressional appropriation.

Kaffirs Like Liquor.
The British consul-general at Lourenço Marques, in a report to the British foreign office on the value of the Kaffir trade, mentions that the Kaffirs of that colony employed in the Transvaal spend of the wages they bring back with them every year $2,500,000 in drink, and there are only about 50,000 of them.

S.S.S. FOR THE BLOOD

The demand for S. S. S. has steadily increased since it was first placed on the market until it is now recognized as the greatest of all blood purifiers. It has won its way to success because IT CURES DISEASE, and there are few homes where S. S. S. for the blood is not a household saying. As the blood is the very life of the body, nourishing and supplying strength to every part, disease in some form is sure to follow when it becomes contaminated. Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Boils, Pimples and the various skin affections are due to an over-acid and impure blood supply. Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Chronic Sores and Ulcers, Contagious Blood Poison, etc., are all deep-seated blood diseases and will continue to grow worse and more dangerous as long as the impurities and poisons which produce them remain in the blood. In all blood disorders S. S. S. has proven itself a perfect remedy, and will earn the right to be called the greatest of all blood purifiers. It goes down into the circulation and forces out all poisons, impurities, humors, and unhealthy matter, and makes this life-stream rich, pure and health-sustaining. S. S. S. reaches inherited blood taints and so enriches the circulation that diseases of years standing are permanently cured. It contains no harmful minerals and is nature's real blood purifier. Book on the blood and medical advice free. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

MOBILIZE TROOPS FOR CUBAN SERVICE

TRANSPORTS BEING EQUIPPED TO CARRY SOLDIERS.

WAR DEPARTMENT BUSY

Officers Put in Sunday Making Preparations to Send Soldiers to Havana to Enforce Jurisdiction of Secretary Taft.

Washington, Oct. 1.—American troops are moving toward Cuba. Mobilization of the force will be at Newport News, Va., for the most part, although a part of the first expeditionary force to Cuba will be sent from New York and Tampa, Fla.

Advices received at the department of the military establishment of the government indicate that all is quiet in Cuba, and that the insurgents intend to lay down their arms. The probability is that United States forces in the island will be landed only as a precautionary measure. So far as officials of the government here are advised, no trouble of a serious kind is anticipated, but in accordance with instructions from President Roosevelt, hurried preparations are being made for the sending of an expeditionary force of the army to Cuba.

The first American troops will be landed at Havana next Saturday. Meantime, the marines and bluejackets from the American fleet in Cuban waters will protect American interests and support Secretary Taft, the provisional governor of Cuba, in the preservation of order and the protection of life and property.

Intervention Had to Come

In official circles here American intervention was regarded as inevitable. How long it may continue, it is impossible to tell. The nature of the intervention and the preparations for it indicate a supervision of Cuban affairs on the part of the American government for an indefinite period. Arrangements have been concluded not only for the first expeditionary force to Cuba of about 5,000 men, but for a second force of equal numbers. No orders for the mobilization of the second force, of course, have been issued, but if the men are needed all arrangements have been completed for hurrying them to Cuba at the earliest possible moment. Whether more troops than are included in the first expedition will be sent to Cuba will depend upon the developments in the island during the next ten days or two weeks.

It is certain, however, that a sufficient force of American troops will be maintained in Cuba to support the provisional government and to insure security to life and property pending the establishment of a stable government by the Cubans.

Government Officers Busy

Operations in all departments of the military establishment of the government Sunday were on a war basis. The acting secretaries and chiefs of all bureaus were at their desks and every office was humming with activity. Scores of clerks who have not worked on Sunday since the Spanish-American war were on duty at the war and navy departments and at the headquarters of the marine corps.

Gen. Almsworth, military secretary, and Gen. Bell, chief of staff, of the army, worked throughout the day concluding arrangements for the departure of the first expeditionary force to Cuba. Orders for the movement of the troops were sent out Saturday night, but Sunday scores of orders were sent to officers who are on leave to join their regiments.

Gen. Humphrey, quartermaster general, practically closed arrangements for the transports which are to convey the expedition to Cuba. The ships will be ready for departure before the troops have been mobilized at Newport News. If it should be necessary to send a second expeditionary force to Cuba immediately following the first, the war department apprehends some difficulty on account of the quarantine laws of the various southern states. A transport returning to any southern state from Cuba will have to remain in quarantine five days before it can take on a cargo or troops for Cuba. The war department has taken up this matter with the authorities of the southern states in the hope of arranging for a waiver of the five days' quarantine regulation.

Available Landing Force

Secretary Taft, as the head of the president's special mission to Cuba, has available nearly 5,000 marines and bluejackets who could be landed on Cuban soil in a few hours in case of emergency. Other marines are en route to Cuba and will be available for emergency service in two or three days.

It will be a full week before the forces of the army can be landed in Cuba. The first detail of troops will leave New York on Wednesday aboard the army transport Sumner. They will arrive in Havana on Saturday afternoon next. It probably will be several days later before other troops of the first expeditionary force of the army will be able to reach Cuba. Where they will be landed is yet undetermined. It is likely they will go to Havana, but their precise destination will not be determined until practically the hour of the sailing of the transports.

No time is being lost in hurrying troops to the point of mobilization—Newport News, Va. The order of President Roosevelt, received at 10:55 o'clock Saturday night at the war department was imperative. Its text was as follows:

Order Troops to Move

"Arrange for 5,000 troops to start for Cuba as soon as possible."

answer to one sent to the president in the morning by the war department officials, following the message from Secretary Taft.

Immediately upon receipt of the president's order, telegrams were sent to the troops selected for Cuban service to move at once. By midnight all orders to the troops had been dispatched and advices received by the military secretary, Gen. Almsworth, indicate that the orders are being carried into effect.

Nine hundred men will sail from New York next Wednesday on the army transport Sumner. One light battery from Fort Sheridan, at Chicago, will embark from Port Tampa for Havana as soon as arrangements can be completed for the movement. The remainder of the first expeditionary force, which will number about 5,700 men will sail for Cuba from Newport News, Va.

Disposition of the Army

The general movement of the army forces is shown in a cablegram sent by Acting Secretary of War Oliver to Secretary Taft, at Havana, the text of which follows:

"Telegram from president: 'Arrange for 5,000 troops to start for Cuba as soon as possible.'"

"Troops now moving. Embark at Newport News, except light battery, which goes through Tampa, and two battalions of infantry and one battalion of engineers, which go from New York on the Sumner. Total force to consist of ten battalions of infantry, four squadrons of cavalry, of 65 men each company and troop; two mountain batteries from Vancouver; one field battery; one battalion of engineers; one company of signal corps; 36 medical officers and 371 hospital corps men. Sumner now loading with commissary supplies at New York and expects to sail with about 900 men from there, as specified by Wednesday.

"Balance of force from Newport News and Tampa to follow as rapidly as chartered transports can be ready, and expect to complete shipment of entire force within ten days. Chief of staff will furnish further details as rapidly as information is received. All troops are directed to take full supply tentage, cots, mosquito bars and head nets."

The troops to go to Cuba on the Sumner are two battalions of infantry from Plattsburg (N. Y.) barracks, and a battalion of engineers from Washington barracks. Accompanying them will be some officers and men of the medical corps and hospital corps and perhaps of the signal corps. The Sumner now is loading at New York. She will carry commissary supplies for the first expedition for 30 days, in addition to the necessary supplies for her crew and the men she will carry en route to Cuba. The supplies for the expedition to be carried by the Sumner will aggregate more than 200 tons of regular rations, in addition to about 100 tons of sales stores, including milk, canned fruits and chewing and smoking tobacco. Many of these stores were in hand at the New York depot of the commissary department, but some of them had to be purchased in the open market. Additional stores will be purchased in the New York market and will be loaded on the Sumner as rapidly as they can be delivered. The New York depot of the commissary department was open all Saturday night and all day Sunday and every effort is being made to facilitate the departure of the Sumner. It is likely that the troops to sail on the Sumner will be concentrated in New York on Tuesday.

The Roundup By Willie West

A Veteran Baseball Player's Quick Wit --- Pugilistic Talk.

One of the cleverest bits of quick thinking ever witnessed in baseball was years ago in Cincinnati, and Bid McPhee, the "King," pulled it off. How fast he thought only can be guessed. It must have been instantaneous. Bid was on first base with nobody out when some one drove a bouncer straight at Wild Bill Everett, who was playing first for Chicago. Bill dug up the ball, touched first and made one of his copyrighted throws to second to catch Bid, having plenty of time for the double play.

The ball disappeared. Dahlen, who was on second, never saw it. He thought the ball had hit Bid. The umpire, crouching to see the play at the base, lost the ball. Bid hesitated at second, glanced around, saw the entire Chicago infield running around wildly and tore on for third. At third, after turning the base, he hesitated again, looked back and then tore on home. From his actions both at second and home any spectator would have sworn Bid was as ignorant of the whereabouts of the ball as were the Chicago players.

The Chicago team was wild with excitement and the crowd was mystified. No one knew where the ball was. The only clue was a yell of amusement from the Cincinnati bench. The ball had disappeared utterly and the umpire threw out a new one. After the game we learned what had become of the ball. Everett had hit Bid with it. The ball had struck him under the arm, and, holding it tight against his body, Bid had curled it entirely around the bases and to the bench, while acting as if he didn't know where it was.

Miss Grace George In "Clothes"

An Interesting Drama by Channing Pollock and Avery Hopwood.

The Company Includes Guy
Standing and Frank Worthing.

(From Our New York Dramatic Correspondent)

Surrounded by a splendid assemblage of well-known and able actors and actresses, Grace George has made a successful appearance at the Manhattan theater in "Clothes," a study of city life by Channing Pollock and Avery Hopwood, a Cleveland newspaper writer.

Appearing with Miss George are Guy Standing, Frank Worthing, Robert T. Haines, Douglas Fairbanks, Louise Closser, Dorothy Revell and Anne Sutherland—surely a goodly array of "talent."

The work of Miss George and of her foregoing associates is at all times as effective as the play will permit.

The story in brief outline is the adventure of a girl of ingenious but vain disposition, who indulges her tastes for pretty garments and other extravagances in the belief that she is receiving an income from a legacy left her in the care of her father's lawyer. The latter has lost the money in bad investments and is supplying her with his own money in the hope that she will marry him after his invalid wife's death. When he finds she is attracted by another, the scoundrel leads his rival to believe that he has been paying her bills with her consent and thus succeeds for a time in clouding her good name.

The plot also includes the downfall of a rich man through his own mania for affluence and the social extravagances of his wife.

Mr. Worthing as the scoundrel gives an unusually fine performance in a drunken scene at the climax. His display of rage and chagrin on his discovery that his victim had escaped from him gave the audience a genuine thrill.

GRACE GEORGE.

Miss George's gentle personality and ingenious manner quite capture the audience's sympathy. She expresses emotions only in miniature, but her performance has the ring of sincerity, and she does not fail to sound a note of real intensity at the play's climax.

As it stands the play is an unconventional comedy, with at times a melodramatic tinge. Its spark of interest is bright throughout, increasing frequently to a warm glow of emotional force. Its drift is the portrayal of feminine vanity, extravagance and capriciousness and the disasters to which such weaknesses may lead. A gown desired, secured, worn and cast aside by the heroine in the four successive acts is used as a symbol of the vicissitudes through which she passes. The satire of the whole is trenchant, but kindly, and it involves interesting and correct estimates of human nature.

On the other hand, there are some loosely constructed situations and passages of dialogue that seemed strained and artificial. Minor characters are not easy to identify, and the climax of the play, in which is portrayed the distrust of a lover for the girl he has been struggling to marry, on the bare word of a self-evident cad, leaves, for the moment, an exceedingly bitter taste. But this defect is afterward overcome in a very pretty and unconventional final act. ROBERT BUTLER.

"From the Mouths of Children"

"Playing right field is entirely different from playing left, and I had to learn my game all over again," observes Schulte of the Chicago Cubs. "Right hand batters seem to hit harder into right field than left handers hit into left field, so that a man shifting from one field to the other, as I did, will have to start from the very beginning to learn the angles of the right field. Fly balls have to be judged differently, and grounders have to be handled from the other side."

WANTED THE FRESH AIR.

Confinement in Church Not at All to Youngster's Taste.

Shortly after Mrs. X. arrived at a certain village, much favored as a summer resort, she took her two small sons for a walk. In the course of their peregrinations they visited the village cemetery, where the epitaphs on many of the old tombstones were read and commented on, the boys seeming to be duly impressed with the solemnity of the occasion.

The following day being Sunday, Mrs. X. wished her sons to attend services with her in the village church. Both boys objected strenuously to having their spiritual natures ministered to in this fashion. It might be endured in the city, but in the country and during vacation time they thought they might be allowed their freedom. Finally, after considerable discussion, the elder of the boys asked earnestly:

"Mamma, why won't it do just as well if George and I go and walk in the cemetery?"

Fresh Air Towers

Dr. Scherl, a well known physician and an authority on national hygiene, has made a singular proposal to the Berlin town council, which this body is now considering. Dr. Scherl's proposal is that the town council should build airy pavilions at several points of the city at about 100 feet above the level of the streets. These pavilions would be supported on strong steel frames and reached by elevators. Their purpose is to afford rest and refreshment and good air to citizens weary of the maddening noises, the unrest and the noxious smells of the streets.

There would be plenty of seats up in those airy pavilions, plenty of flowers, good beer, lemonade, water, music and other enjoyments. As to the question of cost, Dr. Scherl is certain that his pavilions would pay, especially as no rent would be necessary and, far from being eyesores, the pavilions might be graceful and artistic erections, adding considerably to the beauty of the streets.

Riding the Marches

The ceremony known as the "Riding of Langholm Marches" took place yesterday. At half-past five a drum and fife band, summoned the inhabitants from their beds, and preceded them to Old Hillhead, where they witnessed a round race of six miles, which was covered in 19 minutes. A man bearing aloft on a pole a barley bannock and salt herring, and followed by the elected cornet for the year, with some 60 horsemen then perambulated certain streets and the steep sides of a neighboring hill, the party being refreshed with bannocks, herrings and whiskey. On their return to the town several hundreds of children, carrying heather besoms joined the procession, and a monster Scotch thistle was born aloft. London Globe.

The Bachelors of England

Under our present system our men emigrate, but leave our delicately nurtured women at home. Families of grown-up, unmarried daughters, discontented and restless, are far too numerous among us, and all the while in far-off places of the empire there are men by the thousand, hungering for the sight of an English lass. We do not exaggerate. The flag of Britain in too many parts of the earth is flying over a generation of bachelors.—Boy and Girl.

The Fate of the Czars

The reported determination of the czar to abdicate recalls the fact that since 1613, when the Romanoffs became the Royal house of Russia, there have been 15 czars. Of these 15 Romanoffs one (Ivan) was an idiot, three have been murdered by their relatives (not including Alexis, son of Peter the Great, poisoned by his father), one was assassinated by his subjects, 12 have died more or less natural death, while the present czar, Nicholas II, makes the eighteenth, and his late history has still to determine.

Is YOUR "I" Always in the PUBLIC EYE?

Egotism used to be defined as "suffering your I to get too much in the public eye."

The censure in this definition is all very appropriate if applied only to people who lead wholly "private lives"—to people quite outside of trade or business activities.

But, to people who "keep store," to people who must find a market for something or other, and whose names are identified with their business, KEEPING THEIR "IS" IN THE PUBLIC EYE IS NOT EGOTISM—it is FUNDAMENTAL GOOD SENSE.

There was once an adage which said: "Seldom seen, soon forgotten." It was a true adage—true of almost everything, and especially true of NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING as applied to BUSINESS PROSPERITY. A business enterprise grows in sure proportion to the regularity with which it is kept in the public eye and memory.
